OLYNTIAN WAR

Olynthus, a Greek City in CHALCIDICE was the center of a league. It endeavored to force other cities into the union. They appealed to Sparta for aid. A Spartan force, after some reverses compelled the city to surrender (379BC)

379 AC

The Greek city-state Thebes had suffered for 4 years under the Spartan yoke when a small party of Theban men dressed as women and joined the drinking party the Spartan commanders were giving. The "women" drew their knives and slaughtered them
